

EVERYBODY WILL PICNIC NEXT SUNDAY

The 6th of September is reserved for you and your folks for a quiet time under the pines and poplars

There will not be any regular picnic next Sunday but one of the finest crowds you ever saw will go to Bowers mansion. This is not a picnic of any individual order, but it is going to be everybody's picnic and everybody is going to be there. Now all you have to do is to sit down and put your think tank in operation, take a nice lunch and your best girl and all else will be in readiness for one of the best times you have had in 'steen years.

The best of accommodations will be placed at the disposal of all and there is one other thing that may well be borne in mind. This is it:

The picnic season is drawing to a close. In a short while you will be climbing under a load of blankets that would make a mule kick while at the present time nothing can be offered more enticing than an outing at a place with the historic elements of Bowers mansion.

Of course the swimming ponds will be filled with the younger generation but there will be room for the older folk if they want to take a chance.

There will be singing, dancing, races and all kinds of athletic sports, while the parlors of the mansion will resound with the laughter and jests of the children. They will all remind you of the days when you were young and bring memories that have long since become rusty from disuse.

The train will leave at the regular time—8:35—and will bring you home just as Jos. McCormack has done for years. At 7:10 Joe will say: "Now all you good people hike out for home and remember where you've spent the day—it's the finest place top side of dust."

Tickets will only be $1 for the round trip. Commence to get ready if you want to enjoy a day's outing.

FOUND NO CLEWS

But If They Had, the Lord Knows What Wouldn't Have Happened

The Folsom guards have returned from their trip to the Utah line in search of convicts, but they found nary a one. Not a single individual desperate citizen came into their Pullman car and declared himself to be one of the fellows they wanted.

This was very disappointing, especially as the guards had a hundred rounds of ammunition apiece and would certainly have given a good account of themselves if Fahey, Gordon, Miller or any of the other escaped cons had come into the dining car while they were eating and disclosed his identity. The guards have done well. They have braved all manner of dangers—they might have been hurt in a railroad wreck or have contracted anthrax—and they got back unscathed.

Two of the brave guards have gone up to Lake Tahoe and are chasing the festive summer girls through the tall timber. They will never surrender—that is, the guards won't.

THE GUN CLUB SHOOT

Ed Morton Makes Highest Score in Handicap Contest

Rock Assays Well

Frank Golden received another interesting dispatch from Tonopah yesterday. The North Star mine now has ore across the entire bottom of its shaft, the deepest workings in the camp. The ore runs about $70 to the ton, a splendid grade for shipping. No drift has been run and the width of the ledge has not been determined. It is, however, known to be at least five feet thick.

A Big Banquet

The Labor Day celebration committee expect to feed two thousand people next Monday without money and without price. The banquet will be spread beneath the trees on the grounds of the Hotel Nevada. There will be a band of music present. The banquet will begin at noon and will continue till everybody is satisfied or the grub gives out.

THE HIBERNIANS ENJOY THEIR OUTING

One of the Pleasantest Picnics of the Season at Bowers—Fully Three Hundred People Spent Sunday There

One of the pleasantest and most predictable picnics of the season was held at Bowers mansion Sunday. Nearly 200 people from this city boarded the train and among them was included some of the best known people of the state. Governor Sparks was placed in charge of the entire function as soon as the train arrived at the ground and the manner in which he performed the duties imposed upon him was indeed pleasing.

Governor Sparks made one of his honest, characteristic talks, in which he detailed in brief his attitude on all questions and the reward for his pains was deafening applause.

Then James A. Donovan made a brief talk and he was followed by Warden Considine of Virginia. John made a nice talk but couldn't get off with that. The people knew that John could tear off a few Irish songs and he had to do it. Now John was formerly a newspaper man and you know those fellows can do a little bit of almost any old thing. Considine had to sing and he showed that he was "Johnny on the Spot," and the way he warbled out sweet Irish melodies would do your heart good.

Father Reynolds then made a nice little talk to the people, after which dancing and other games were indulged in until the train whistled. All had a good time.

Safe Home Again

"Dike" and "Schweitzer" arrived from San Francisco yesterday after disposing of their live stock. They enjoyed their outing immensely with the exception of their trip up the mountains. At this season breaking coal through the snowsheds is an uncomfortable occupation. The boys say that Charley Mickell is well and happy. He has located three blocks of Market street as a pincer claim and expects to purchase the Palace hotel out of the proceeds of the first cleanup.

Put It All Over Them

The Gravel Pit ball tossers ran up against the U & I baseball team yesterday and taught the Renos how to play the national game, the score being 11 to 5 in favor of the gravel scatters. The game was hardly a good criterion by which to judge of the strength of the respective teams as neither has its usual list of players.

MORE LABOR DAY PLANS ARE LAID

The Committees Are Working Hard to Make the Celebration the Biggest That Has Ever Happened in the State

If the Labor Day celebration is not the biggest event that has ever taken place in Nevada The Journal will miss its guess by at least a mile. When the half thousand union men in Reno set their heads to do anything they generally accomplish the result desired to be attained, and this instance will certainly be no exception to the rule. The arrangements are for something "grand, elliptical, Asiatic and pantocurial," as one of the committee-men said last evening.

The tug of war team will meet every evening this week for practice at Henry Ritter's labor hall. The building trades team, which practiced last evening, showed considerable strength, which it well might as the Comstock miners are likewise meeting nightly and expect to come to Reno with a team able to pull a cottonwood tree up by the roots.

The committee appointed to arrange for the closing of business houses on the day of the celebration reported at a meeting last evening that they had seen all the business houses west of Virginia street and, with one exception, they had agreed to close their stores.

Another Story

A report was started about midnight last night to the effect that two of the Folsom convicts had been caught near this city. The sheriff's office issued no credence in the story, which was told them by a person a little the worse for wear. He said that the cons had been freed by his nephews. There was sufficient belief in the story for the San Francisco papers, which were quickly apprised, to keep the wires hot looking for confirmation and details.

A Big Strike

When Judge Shutter-Cottrell received word that ore valued at $1 a pound was being sacked at his mine in the Lone Pine country he thought there was something wrong either with his eyesight or the pen of his informant. He wrote for confirmation of the good news and Sunday received a letter from Felix P. Meyers, a merchant at that place, corroborating the news in every particular.

A Nevada Concern

J. E. Gignoux, secretary and treasurer of the Nevada Reduction Works, is down from Dayton and is stopping at the Riverside. The company has not yet started up its Rock Point mill.

because of the shortage of water which will continue until the irrigation season is over. The cyanide department is now employing about 30 men. The payroll of the company does much to keep Dayton's head above water.

PRESENT TO OFFICER

Evidence That Wood Came to Reno By Way of Carson

When Convict Wood was arrested he gave out that he came to Reno by way of Truckee. While there were doubts expressed at the time, the evidence is now certain that he was a fellow traveler with Murphy, who occupies the cell adjoining his in the Washoe county jail.

Wood feels so grateful to the deputy sheriffs for their humane treatment of him that he told Deputy Maxwell the other day where he hid his rifle. It was left under a bridge this side of Carson.

He made a drawing of the locality and this was given Arthur Rayercraft by the officer. The latter made a pilgrimage to the place yesterday and there the gun was found. There were nine cartridges in the magazine and twenty more in the belt.

Unless the Folsom authorities demand possession of the weapon it will remain one of Deputy Maxwell's most treasured belongings.

RAVAGED BY DISEASE

Cuba is Now Experiencing a Terrible Plague

Special to The Journal] NEW YORK, Aug. 31.—A strange and terribly fatal malady, is raging in Cuba. It is similar to yellow fever and as horrible as the plague in its effect. It originated in the eastern part and is spreading all over the island. The Cuban doctors are helpless and appeal to Americans to investigate the disease. The patients' pulse reaches 160, which is deemed almost impossible by physicians of experience. Respiration counts 58. The temperature is 107 and 108.

That Eastern Row

Special to The Journal] LONDON, Aug. 31.—Advices from Bulgaria state a belief that war with Turkey is inevitable and a clash likely in the near future. An outbreak in northern Macedonia, which is expected to produce a clash, is likely to take place any day. Further details show terrible outrages by the Turks on the defenseless villages near Uskub.

Why It Was Killed

Special to The Journal] WASHINGTON, Aug. 31.—Advices from Columbia indicate that indiscreet pressure by the United States minister aroused antagonism of the Colombians and killed the Canal treaty.

Additional Subscriptions

The following amounts have been subscribed toward the labor day celebration in addition to the previous announcements: Harry Davis, $2, Harry Brownlee, $1; Farmers & Merchants' Bank, $5.

TO INVESTIGATE THE ANTHRAX PLAGUE

If That Disease Exists. Among Dairy Cattle in This Vicinity the Board of Health Will Take the Steps Necessary

The district attorney has awakened to a realization of the fact that a certain deadly disease is ravaging the dairy herds on the Truckee meadows. He has addressed a communication to the county commissioners calling their attention to the condition of affairs and requesting them to meet at his office today for the purpose of taking such steps as the board may deem necessary.

The state board of health will meet today on a similar mission. If anthrax is really prevalent among dairy cows in this vicinity and has caused the number of deaths ascribed to it, it is certainly time that means be taken to prevent the use of exposed milk in this city, as anthrax is a disease that can be communicated to human beings and frequently causes death.

Detective Gets Buncoed

There is a story going the rounds to the effect that a certain well known detective in the employ of the Southern Pacific company was victimized the other evening by a fakir who sold him a "diamond set gold ring" for $1. The detective took the ring to a local jeweler and was informed that it was phony. The only satisfaction he got was in securing the fakir's arrest on the charge of peddling goods without a license.

Well Earned Lay Off

Officer Ferrel will take a lay off for the balance of the week. This faithful servant of the public has been applying himself too closely to his work and is feeling the effects of it. He has not recovered from the privations and fatigue he underwent while pursuing the convicts. While he is recuperating Officer Upson will hold down his beat.

SILVER'S UPWARD TREND

RECENT dispatch from New York to the San Francisco Chronicle explains the rise in silver as follows:

"The sharp advance in silver in the London and New York markets during the past few weeks has carried it to the highest mark since November 1901. For nearly six months the market has been on the upward move. Representatives here of the large smelting interests say the rise is partly due to a heavy demand from India. Large wholesale dealers in that country are distributing a good deal of the metal to the retail trade. In addition, it is believed there was recently a considerable short interest in the metal. Silver is a favorite article of speculation among London bullion dealers.

It is believed by some that the British government is buying silver, although this cannot be confirmed. France is buying rather freely to supply a demand for coinage in the French possessions in Asia. The position of China is not clear at the moment beyond the fact that where China at the close of the last year was unloading a large surplus of the metal, thus coming in competition with shipments from the west, it has now ceased to be a seller.

The purchases of the United States government for Philippine coinage also have been a factor."

This statement of the case, which doubtless is measurably true, seems to leave the operations of the supposed "silver trust" entirely out of account. There is, in fact, no such thing as a "silver trust" in the ordinary and obvious sense of the term "trust." The Guggenheim company cannot begin to control the silver output. The most it can do is to refuse to sell such silver as it does control unless the price is satisfactory, just as the farmers may hold their wheat or corn for the best prices in prospect. There is a vast difference between such a course and the monopolizing of an industry by which the output is limited and the price forced up in that way. Possibly this large selling concern has been a factor in a small way as its operations may serve to offset the efforts of the London brokers to bear the market.

But there is scarcely a doubt that the main cause of the advance is the increase of the demand in proportion to the supply. Everything which has contributed to this increase has of course helped to strengthen the market. The Philippine coinage may have played a part, but as The Journal has heretofore observed, the part must be a small one, because the purchases on that account have not been large, and as the new pesos simply take the place of Mexican dollars which would otherwise go there, the effect of this coinage must also be temporary. Probably many factors have combined to strengthen the price of the white metal, but the chief one and the only one of permanent value is the increased demand.

All of this is very suggestive in the strong support which it gives to the contentions of the silver men as to the effect which the free coinage of the metal by the United States government would have upon the price. It is marvellously certain that free coinage in this country at $1.29 per ounce would fix the price at that figure the world over, for the simple reason that no man with a grain of business sense having silver for sale would part with it for materially less than it would be worth at the American mint. If an English broker wanted silver for shipment to India or China he would have to pay the American mint rate or countries would help sustain the price fixed by the coinage law of the United States. Some one may say in answer to this that those countries would not take the silver at so high a price. The conclusive reply is that they must have it. They took more silver when it was worth from $1.29 to $1.33 per ounce than they do now.

CONVICTED A THIRD TIME

FOR a third time Caleb Powers, Kentucky's ex-secretary of State, has been convicted of complicity in the murder of Wm. Gobel. This time the jury has imposed the penalty of death.

On the first two trials it was stated by the press that the juries were mixed in their political complexion, comprising members of both the great parties, with possibly a Populist or two. How the third jury stood politically we do not know, but surrounded by friends as Powers has been and defended with consummate ability, it is not to be supposed that the jury was made up exclusively of political opponents.

Neither is it to be imagined for a moment that the juries in succession have found an innocent man guilty. There has been no reign of terror in Kentucky that could produce such a result. Had there been, Powers would never have been granted two new trials by the Supreme Court on purely technical grounds.

The fact is indisputable that the killing of Wm. Gobel was a cold-blooded treacherous, political assassination—all the circumstances considered, the worst that ever disgraced the history of this country. The heartless abuse of the murdered man by a portion, at least, of the Republican press, and the screening of the fugitive Taylor by Republican governors, simply adds to the enormity of the crime.

Had the Republican leaders shown as much interest in the negro's welfare during the past thirty years as they have shown in his vote there would be less race prejudice today.

TOWN WAKES UP

He Dissertates Upon Streets, Alleys, Sidewalks, Bridges and Other Things That We Walk On --Walks Gently on Authorities

The Man About Town has at last emerged from his involuntary sequestration, and again makes his appeal through the columns of The Journal in the interest of certain public improvements which seem necessary, and no doubt will meet with the approval of the majority of the live citizens of Reno.

This article is called forth by a slight accident which occurred at the iron bridge on Virginia street last evening, the particulars of which are as follows: As a lady was crossing to the north side her foot caught under one of the board approaches to the bridge, which, by the way, stands some four inches in the air, and she was thrown violently to the sidewalk.

Fortunately for either the state, county or city nothing serious resulted from the accident, although the lady may in her own mind have thought something in relation to the accident. She said nothing, but the Man About Town was present, and, after the accident, helped the lady to her feet, resolving in his mind to look into the matter, and call upon the authorities to make such repairs as seem necessary to prevent further accidents, and, maybe, considerable cost to the aforesaid State of Nevada, county of Washoe, or city of Reno

Chief of Police Leeper was approached. He said he had troubles of his own, and advised the Man About Town to see Mayor Turrittin. When the mayor was seen in relation to the necessary repairs he said that the city had nothing to do with the iron bridge—that the county commissioners were the responsible parties.

Now, the members of the board were not seen, but if this bridge is the property of the county and does not come in as the property of the city under the incorporation act, why not have the proper authorities—that is, those who are paid salaries, and are supposed to be next their several situations—Inquire regarding the matter?

It is generally supposed that in a transfer of "streets and alleyways" bridges spanning any considerable stream such as the Truckee should and would be mentioned. But nary a mention. It is up to the city and county boards to fight the matter to a finish—or, as is sometimes usual, an indefinite continuance.

Regarding the above paragraph, it may not be out of place to suggest that if the city is to be responsible for the maintenance and repairs of the several bridges across the river within the corporate limits at least one good ar light should be placed upon each

The attention of the City Dads, as the Man About Town will from time to time call those in whose hands the affairs of Reno are now vested, is particularly called to the condition of the sidewalk on Commercial Row. Reno, as represented, is supposed to be the metropolis of Nevada while not its capital city. As such, the hundreds of tourists who pass through the city every morning take all the time available between the arrival and departure of trains to walk this street, and as they pass down that thoroughfare—the only one they can take and still keep their eyes on the train—they are wont to say "ouch," and use other bad language as they kick a nail in the neck or tumble into an open trap door. Now, honestly, Dads, some attention should be given to the conditions of the walks on Commercial Row if the interests of Reno are to be looked after by you.

The Eagle Band Gives a Concert at Truckee and Circumnavigates Lake the Next Day--Splendid Treatment by Truckee People

The Eagle band went on its annual outing Saturday evening. The local was late and the boys did not reach Truckee until 9:50. The Nifty band of that city was at the depot to greet the Reno musicians. The selections they played assisted materially in holding the crowd. There were about three hundred people in Hurd's hall when the band opened its concert. After several selections the dance was begun, which continued until 1:30. The band boys were all up at 5 o'clock the following morning ready for their trip to the lake. Editor Haley joined the bunch. Mr. Haley did everything he could to make the trip a great success.

A couple of selections were played on the wharf, but there was such a crowd on the steamer that they couldn't get together to play until after the boat left Glenbrook.

The musicians lay about in the sun and drank ginger ale and swiped ripe tomatoes from the freight and ate them to alleviate the thirst occasioned by imbibing soft drinks.

The trip was a most pleasant one. If the Tahoe railroad company had had the enterprise to advertise the trip and given the band some concessions there would have undoubtedly been the most pleasant trip ever taken around the lake.

PURE ARTESIAN WATER

Strong Flow of Cold Water Encountered Near This City

People traveling on the Virginia road just south of town the past couple of weeks have noticed a pipe projecting from the ground and from it flowing a stream of clear water 30 gallons to the minute.

This is from an artesian well bored by the Pettigrew company. The company owns the land where the well was sunk. The drill was bored 300 feet before it pierced the stratum holding back this flow of water. The water has been analyzed and has been found to be as pure as any water that ever flowed from a spring. There is absolutely no decayed animal or vegetable matter in it and no chemicals perceptible to taste or injurious to health.

The Pettigrew company proposes to deliver this water in sanitary utensils to all parts of the city beginning in a couple of days.

The water will be delivered to hotels, restaurants, saloons, offices and residences in all quantities from a gallon up. There is positively no danger of contracting typhoid fever from use of this water and it guards against summer complaint and kindred ailments.

Contrary to predictions, the water struck in this well is very cold and refreshing, it having been the belief that at a depth of several hundred feet hot water would be encountered, in fact, hot water was struck in the artesian well at the Sparks ranch, two miles south.

Clevo's Last Letter

Governor Sparks yesterday received a letter that about upset him for the day. It was a letter, from the late A. C. Cleveland, and dated the same day that he died. The letter was acknowledging the receipt of the appointment as a delegate to the National Irrigation Congress which is to take place at Ogden. Mr. Cleveland stated that he heartily approved of the work of the congress and would be there says the Appeal of recent date.

The writing was in the clear and legible hand that Cleve used and showed no signs of the illness that took him off the same day. The letter kept the governor thinking the rest of the day as he and Mr. Cleveland were close friends in spite of the fact that they had opposed each other politically. The last election, instead of making enemies of the men, sealed a friendship that has existed for many years.
